RICE IN

The Noted Theatrical Manager's Address In Ludlow Street.

Judges Browne and Truax Have Him There for Contempt.

Two Separate Offenses in the City and Superior Courts.

"Col." Ed Rice, the theatrical manager, mons for the production of "Evangeline, " donis and other anatomical displays equally urzy, is having an entirely new experience He awoke this morning a prisoner in Ludlow Street Jail on two commitments.
The first and more serious is issued by Judge

The other is an attachment of the person of ward E. Rice, issued by Judge Browne, of the ty Court, because of the fallure of Mr. Rice to pear before him Jan. 17 last in obedience to order of Chief Judze McAdam and show use why he should not be punished for conan order of Chief Judze McAdam and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

On this attachment Mr. tice may obtain his release until May 31 by producing bail in $400.

1. F. Engle, strustee of the Photo-Mechanical Printing Company, sued Rice in City Court in 1888 for a bill due the Company and obtained indigment, which was returned unsatisfied. On May 3, 1888, an order was issued requiring Mr. Rice to appear May 25 for examination as to his financial condition. Several adjournments were had, and the Court finally lost its patience and an order was issued requiring Rice to appear to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt in failing to obey the Court.

But the austore manager paid no attention to this order even, and an attachment was issued. The attachment has been in the hands of the Sheriff since January, and is now very dirty and worn. It bears under several dates the memorandum 'Not found,' but at 4.30 o'clock yesterday Deputy Sheriffs McGonigle and Young walked in upon the manager at his little office, 1237 Broadway, and took him in charge.

The attachment obliges Rice to appear before Judge Brown next Friday and say why he should not be punished for contempt, and fixes his bail at $400 till that time.

But this was not all. Judge Truax, of the Superior Court, had already adjudged Rice to be negatempt and had imposed a fine of $500 upon him. Commitment papers were instruct on this finding May 4, 1880, and they were indorsed "Not found" three or four times, the manager always being 'senuewhere else" when the Sheriff's doputy sought him.

This trouble is the outgrowth of an old misadventure in St. Louis. In 1881 Rice and John B. Jennings were partners in a Summer muste sarden in the Missouri town. It was a flat failure, and the firm dropped lots of mones, but Jennings claimed that Rice had 'unloaded' the whole thing upon him. Litigation followed, and March 26, 1880, Junnings obtained a judgment for $7,001,71 damages and costs in Superior Court, this city, the whole approximating ment for $7,001,71 damages and costs in Superior Court, this city, the whole approximating $9,000.

The Sheriff returned the judgment unsatisfied, Mr. Rice claiming that he hadn't a dollar in the world. James H. Egan, of the Stewart Building, was the attorney selected to collect the hidgment, and by dint of much perserverance he finally obtained from Rice an agreement to pay $102 a month on the Judgment. Rice did say two or three, times and then quit.

Then supplementary proceedings were resorted to, and Judge Dugro, of the Supreme Court, issued an order requiring Rice to appear June 10 and be examined as to his finances. Rice did appear, and was put through a course of cross-examination approus not enjoyable. He pleaded poverty of the direct sort, and declared that he was not the principal in any of his enterprises, but only the agent of his father-inlaw, Issae B, Rich, of Boston, in 'Evangeline,' and that Dixey was the sole owner of 'The Corsair' and 'Adonis.'

Then the urbane manager got weary and a half dozen adjournments were had at the request of his counsel, Fred Hemming; but Mr. Rice failed to appear again, and on April 20 Judge Truax issued an order to him to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of Court.

And again the blase manager didn't seem to think it worth while to obey, and Judge Truax inch him $500 for it, to stand committed till paid. And so Col. Edward E. Rice is in durance vile, while his counsel is trying hard to find a way out of Ludlow Street Jail.

(hardie Rice, the 'Pickwick' brother of the manager, seems to think the Colone's contempt about have been considered by Judge Truax in a Pickwickian sense. He says: 'Ed was away at the time. Out of town. His business compels him to be here and there, and he couldn't spear in court here and the see somewhere else at the same time. I don't think it'll bother him much. He's got used to lawsits, 'said this model brother.

"As to Jimmy's claim that Ed unloaded on him—now you know nobody ever does that in business, espec

Mr. Rice has sold the "Corsair" company to Worthington & Fowler at the rate of 10 per cent of the gross receipts, and is said to be ne-sotiating for the sale of the "Evangeline" company at the same figure.

To an Everning World reporter who called at the jail at 10 A. M., Mr. Rice sont down word that he would not talk with any newspaper re-porter.

that he would not talk with any newspaper reporter.

Fred Hemming, counsel for Mr. Rice, said to an Events World reporter with much feeling:

'It's too bad! Ed Rice is a plucky fellow. He set badly in the hole a few years ago in Chicago. Sunk 20,000 in a season there. I advised him to make on assignment, but he wouldn't. He looks at everything through rosy spectacles. He was sure be could recomp and pay everything up. He has paid up lots.

As to this contempt proceedings, you know how it is. He works hard. He is the brain of the companies and is manager, advance agent and all. To be in court on the days set he must return from California or somewhere else and leave his company to go to smash.

'I shall obtain his release to-morrow on beloss corpus, and show Judge Truax and Judge Browne the good reasons why he did not appear as ordered. He is willing to be examined, but the courts do not want to ruin a man for nothing.

A Prophesied Bloody Railroad Battle Which Did Not Eventuate.

An Evening World reporter went to Passaic. N. J., this morning, expecting to find the site of the new mills about to be erected there strewn with dead bodies and thronged with squads of armed men.

Such was the expectation, after reading a statement in a morning paper that the Erie road had a force of 150 men at the mill site at mid-night last night, and that the Susqueharna road would have three hundred men there to prevent is men from laying tracks to shut out the

It addition Fassaic's whole police force and a number of special officers were to be there to brevent blood being shed. It was reported that at midnight last night that "it looked as though there would be serious trouble."

The Evening World man found half a dozen people there this morning. Not the slightest frouble had been heard of and the Eries 150 man were simply myths.

expectancy over the great meeting to-morrow afternoon at the Berkeley Oval of the Intercollegiate Association. The interest this year is keener than usual over this event. Instead of the race lying between Harvard and Yale, as usual, with an almost sure thing for the crimson, as has so often been the case, the victor is as hard to pick as the winner of a horse race. Unless something very unlookedfor should occur Sherrill will surely win the 120 and 220 yards for Yale. Shearman, of Yale, and Mapes, of Columbia, will make a tight fight for the broad jump. Shearman has a record of 22 feet. Mapes has leaped 21 feet 956 inches. West, of Pennsylvania, is the likeliest candidate for the mile. Princeton's "dark horse" may wrest the pole vault from Shearman, Yale, or Loavitt. Harvard. Princeton Dohm is very apt to capture the baif and quarter miles. Herbert Mapes, it is balf and quarter miles. Herbert Mapes, it is claimed, has a mortgage on the 120 and 220 hurdles. Columbia will get the tug-of-war, in all probability. Coxe, of Pennsylvania, if he is in his customary form, ought to have a snap at putting the shot and hammer. Mell-vane. Columbia, is apt to walk off with the mile walk. Webster, Pennsylvania, has the best chance at the high jump. It seems a little peculiar that the University of Pennsylvania is prolific in producing high jumpers. Webster is a worthy successor of W. Byrd Page.

Young Mitchell is expected in town to-day from Boston. In all probability he will make a visit to the Police transta office and meet Johnny Reagan's move of yesterday meet Johr half way.

Reagan does not fight very much on paper, but he acts instead of "shooting off his mouth." He is ever eager to fight any good man. He was greatly disappointed in not being able to get on a match with his old opponent, Dempsey. His delight at the all but certainty of his meeting such a first-class man as young Mitchell is proportionately great.

Reagan is a great fancier of dogs. He has just become the possessor of a magnificent St. Bernard about the size of an Alderney President Fulda, of the California Athletic Club, telegraphed Jimmy Carroll yesterday to come on immediately to San Francisco, and offering to pay all his expenses and a salary of $100 a week until he fought. Of course, Mr. Fulda meant for him to meet Joe Ellingsworth, who was to have fought Jack Dempsey, only the Nonparell wanted $5,000. Carroll telegraphed back that he wanted no salary, but would fight for a purse. The Club now will probably offer a purse for Ellingsworth and Carroll, which would be the right thing for it to do under the circumstances. Mr. Fulda said in the event of his not petting on a high, the Club would give him $250 in addition to his salary. But Carroll does not want a salary—he wants a fight.

Dick Toner and a large party of sporting men got back last night from Ike Williams's benefit at Bridgeport Wednesday. They report that the affair was unusually entertaining. Two Children Ruthlessly Taken from Their Dead Mother's Bier.

One of the agents of Autocrat Gerry's Society has been carrying on the kidnapping business with such high-handed authority up in Cherry street that the climate of that part of the town wouldn't be very healthy for him just at present.

It happened in this way: Mrs. Harper, a poor widow, who lived in the tenement-house at 244 Cherry street with her two children, Nellie, thirteen years old and Henry, four years old, died suddenly on the morning of Tuesday, May 14.

The poor woman was suffering with consumption, but up to six months ago had been able to earn a living for herself and children. After her strength gave out she was helped by relatives and friends, and once, when she

As they were nice children, there were lots of neighbors who liked them and took an interest in them, and besides these they had an aunt, Mrs. Maher, who lives at 159 Madison street.

Dr. Joyce, of 84 Madison street, who had been attending the mother, but had not seen her for a week previous to her death, sent the usual notification to the Coroner, with the statement that there were two children. the statement that there were two children.

This is the way it got to Mr. Gerry's Society, and the same afternoon Agent Kane visated the house and made some inquiries.

Mrs. Roby, the old housekeeper, told him that she would be responsible for the care of the children until their relatives came for them, and Kane went away, saying that he would return later.

This made him furious, and he went to old Mrs. Roby and said that if she did not at once give up the children he would arrest both her and Mrs. McKay and send them to the Island for ten days.

Mrs. McKay fainted away at hearing this, and when the other people in the house heard what was going on they gathered around Kane and indignantly protested against his making such a disturbance over the mother's dead body.

She says she went to the Society's office five or six times to try and get them out, but they would not listen to her, and it was only when Father McIntyre, of St. Teresa's Church, and several prominent members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of that parish had used their influence with Mr. Gerry's officers that they would release the children.

Everybody in the neighborhood, which is still excited over the affair, condemus the brutality of Agent Kane, and is indignant that the Society which he represents should be upheld by the law in the commission of such ourrages upon the rights of private individuals.

PRESIDENT COTTERILL GIVES INTEREST-ING DETAILS IN COURT.

The Rev. Howard, He Says, Was Always Present During the Friend Negotiations They Wanted the Company to Make Strups, Jellies and Honey-The Workmen Bound to Secrecy.

The alleged chief electric sugar conspirator. Rev. William E. Howard, looked nervous to-day as he sat in Recorder Smyth's Court, next to his big lawyer. William H. Howe. There was an anxions glauce in his eyes as he peered around the court-room through his gold-bowed spectacles when President William H.

Cotterill resumed the witness-stand. Taking up the line of testimony of yesterday afternoon. Mr. Davis asked the witness what was done after the Moller demonstration with the best sugar.

"I reported to Prof. Friend that the Mollers declined to put up any money. I then made arrangements with Mr. A. R. Lawrence, who had a contract with the Friends and who had paid out some money on it-about $1,250 I think-to a contract with the Friends and who had paid out some money on it—about $1,250 I think—to have the contract cancelled and to have the money paid back to him."

Mr. Cotterill said that he then had several interviews with Friend, and a new contract was drawn up and obgrossed in which he was a principal. It was the same sort of a contract that Friend had made with Lawrence.

"The trouble was," continued Mr. Cotterill, "I couldn't get them to sign the contract. I went there time and again, and they made all sorts of excuses. I could not get them to say what the matter was, and finally went there one day and insisted on knowing, and Frof. Friend said he must have 60 per cent of the stock. "If I were dealing with you slone, he said. I would only need a sheet of paper, but there is to be a company and I don't know with whom I may have to deal."

The contract was finally executed at One Hundred and Eighth street on June 30, 1884. Mr. and Mrs. Friend signed it, and it was executed in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Howard.

Mr. Cotterill said he saw Howard continually at the Friends' House during all these negotiations, and he was present while the conversation was going on.

Continuing, Mr. Cotterill said that he wanted to put in among the objects of the Company that it would manufacture syrups, lellies and honey, for which Prof. Friend claimed he had special processes of manufacture. Friend objected and they were left out.

"The friends were at me all the time, urging me to lot them have the money as fast as I could. cheaper than anybody. This fact has made our Broadway competitors mad; has broken their dreams of "9-cent-cotton-collars." They carp at Lies. Why should they? Falsehoods will not hurt them. It is the truth that hurts, as embodied in our announcements of low-priced clothing.

People like honesty, low prices and a square deal. They know they can get it at A. H. King & When we state that we will sell a certain suit worth a much larger figure for a reduced price the statement is true. The goods are displayed for inspection, plainly marked. That they are purchased, and eagerly, is evidence of the truth of our advestisement.

Come and see us. Follow the crowd. Yesterday we made our Broadway competitors mad. Today we will make them sick with envy and jealousy.

OUR FIFTEEN dollar sale has been a great success, and we continue it to-day and to-morrow. There are garments in this stock worth $40 and $50. The overcoats are in six shades, silk-lined and with satin sleeve lining. The suits are marvels of neatness, fit and desirability, being
